Like to write? Take photos? Design pages?

If you answered "YES!" to any of these questions, then News Production might be the course for you.

As a member of our staff, you would:

__Publish your work in TimberLines—a full-color five-issue news magazine that we distribute to 1,400 students, faculty, and subscribers.

__Develop leadership, time management, and team-building skills.

__Enter state and national journalism contests. Our staff consistently wins state and national awards.

Next fall, we will have openings for reporters, writers, copy editors, videographers, photographers, designers, and advertising sales representatives. If you would like to be considered for a position on our staff, select "News Production" when you pre-register for classes in February. One of our staff's editors will contact you to visit about News Production.
